The Good Doctor

The Theatre Department will present the annual Theatre Student Showcase on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 18, 19 and 20 at 8 p.m. in the Robinson Theatre of the Ogle Center. Tickets are $8 for adults, $5 for students, seniors, and faculty and staff and are available at the Ogle Center ticket office, at all Ticketmaster locations, by calling 502-361-3100, or online at ticketmaster.com. This year's student showcase production — entirely produced, acted, and directed by theatre students, will be Neil Simon's comedy, "The Good Doctor." This Broadway hit is a composite of Neil Simon and Anton Chekhov. In one sketch a harrigan storms a bank and upbraids the manager for his gout and lack of money. In another, a father takes his son to a house where he will be initiated into the mysteries of sex, only to relent at the last moment and leave the boy more perplexed than ever. In another sketch, a crafty seducer goes to work on a wedded woman, only to realize that the woman has been in command from the first overture. Let us not forget the classic tale of a man who offers to drown himself for three rubles. The stories are droll, the portraits affectionate, the humor infectious and the fun unending. "A great deal of warmth and humor in his retelling of these Chekhovian tales." — Newhouse Newspaper. "There is much fun here... Mr. Simon's comic fancy is admirable." — The New York Times. For more information about this production, future concerts, degree programs and scholarships offered by the Indiana University Southeast Theatre Department, call the theatre department at 941-2655 or visit www.ius.edu/theatre.

IUS Children's Center celebrates National Week of the Young Child

The IUS Children's Center asks the IUS community to come together for children during the Week of the Young Child, April 13 to 19.

As part of the Week of the Young Child, celebrated across the country, the IUS Children's Center is honoring young children and all those who make a difference in children's lives.

"All young children need and deserve high-quality early learning experiences that will prepare them for life, and the IUS Children's Center has a great opportunity to do our part to help young children," Wanda Gregory, coordinator of the Children's Center, said.

"Week of the Young Child is time to recognize the importance of early learning for all young children, and to bring the IUS community together to help give all young children a great start," she said.

The Children's Center will host a week of events: All week, the IUS Children's Center will have a book drive for a local charity. On Thursday, April 10, a Brown Bag lunch presentation about Women and Children in Advertising, by Sara Hare, assistant professor of sociology, will be held in the Adult Student Center. Tuesday, April 15, a child health and safety check where IUS parents can get child's shot records reviewed, get information about the seat belt/car seat laws, information about First Steps Programs, information about the New Albany/ Floyd County Library's summer program and summer health and safety tips from the Education Department from Floyd county Memorial Hospital. On Thursday, April 17, the children in attendance at the IUS Children's Center will be "mock grandchildren" to several residents of Robert E. Lee Retirement Home. Both children and seniors will interact, read to/with each other and share a light breakfast. Concluding the weeks events will be Bubble into Spring, held Saturday, April 19 at the Children's Center. Those IUS parents with children ages 3 (potty trained) to 10 years of age are encourage to bring your child and let me "prepare" for Spring.

Week of the Young Child, sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children is an opportunity for early childhood programs across the country, including child care and Head Start programs, preschools and elementary schools, to hold activities to bring awareness to the needs of young children.

Young children and their families depend on high-quality education and care, which help children get a great start and bring lasting benefits to Southern Indiana. Week of the Young Child is a time to recognize the importance of early learning and early literacy, and to celebrate the teachers and policies that bring early childhood education to young children.

The Children's Center has 15 early childhood professionals working together to improve professional practice and working conditions in early childhood education, and to build public support for high-quality early childhood education programs.

The Center is an affiliate of NAEYC, the largest organization of early childhood educators and others dedicated to improving the quality of early education programs for children birth through age 8. Founded in 1926, NAEYC has nearly 100,000 members and a national network of more than 300 local, state and regional affiliates.
